I just wanted to let everyone know-at the current time, you cannot sign up for a user login.

At this point in time, we don't have any need for individual usernames, although that may change. Should it change, we will post another news item.

That being said, we are exploring setting up a mass email system, so we can send out concert notifications, CD sale announcements, fund raisers, and announcements from Doc. Once we get this in place, we will post an announcement.
