

Updates and Forums

Contributed by Allan Reko
Friday, 10 October 2008
Last Updated Thursday, 09 April 2009

Minnesota Choral Theater is has undergone some updates: we have forums now!

- Forums have been reinstated. As it was last time, Registration is required to post, and it is open to all. As some of you who may have visited our forums before our web hosting change may remember, spam got out of control. As part of the fight against this, I have implemented some additional registration requirements:
 - Before you can post, you must confirm the email address you use to register. When you sign up, you will get an email confirming your account. You must click on the link within that email before you can log in and post in the forums.
 - When you register, you will be asked to enter a string of letters and numbers from a picture. While this can be annoying, it is a necessary part of fighting spammers.
 - If for some reason you cannot get registered for an account, you can contact me through the contact menu.
- Concerts will be posted as we schedule them. Please either check back frequently, or sign up for the RSS feed.
- We have added quite a few pieces to our lineup, some popular music, some classical waltzes, all wonderful songs.